The Dahlias of To-Day

In dreary nights of winter
While reading of the flowers,
We long for summer coming
To wander in the bowers
Looking at the Dahlias grow
In their metallic dress of green;
At sturdy plants just full of buds,
And flowers that make us dream.

We wonder, when we look at them,
How God has made them so;
Such wonders of creation,
Dazzling white and golden glow;
In the morning when the sun shines
And the dew spreads o'er the flowers,
A silvery sheen on foliage green
Gleams mystic in the early hours.

When going through the flowery rows
We pause beside the gems
Of all the lovely blooms
On vigorous plants with wiry stems.
There are glories of the East,
There are marvels of the West,
Towering high up in the air
As the sun sinks to its rest.

There are dainty little Pompons
That just fill us with delight
When arranged in vase or basket,
All so wonderful and bright.
Oh, we love the bloom of Pompons;
There's a sweetness in their eye
When waving in the breezes
And looking at the sky.

From the work in growing Dahlias
We get pleasure just the same,
In tying up the pretty blooms
That have brought a world of fame;
We love to grow these wonders
To cut for decoration,
To cheer the sick and lonely
As they gaze in admiration.

So, touring on the highways
From July until November,
We see many fields of beauties
All aglow in gorgeous splendor,
Giving cheer to countless thousands
As they pass along the way,
And no flowers are more attractive
Than the Dahlias of today.

Elite Glory

This great dahlia was originated by us in 1923 and ever since its appearance as a Second Year Flower in 1924 it has created a sensation wherever exhibited. It is the most spectacular exhibition flower in the World. A Break among Dahlias, due to its giant size on long perfect stems and its peculiar but perfect habits of growth—giant flowers in average soil without heavy disbudding.

The color is a radiant bright red and its effect of brilliance has not been surpassed by any other flower and this includes the entire flower world. Due to the strong stems and fine texture of the flowers it will keep longer than any dahlia we have tried.

TESTIMONIALS

Rumson, N. J., Sept. 9th, 1924

W. W. Kennedy & Sons.

Dear Mr. Kennedy:

I have had the pleasure of seeing your new Dahlia "Elite Glory" growing today.

I cannot in words express to you, what I think of this magnificent variety; it is truly a wonder

As an exhibition Dahlia I have never seen anything to equal it.

You have indeed set a new high mark, and I sincerely congratulate you.

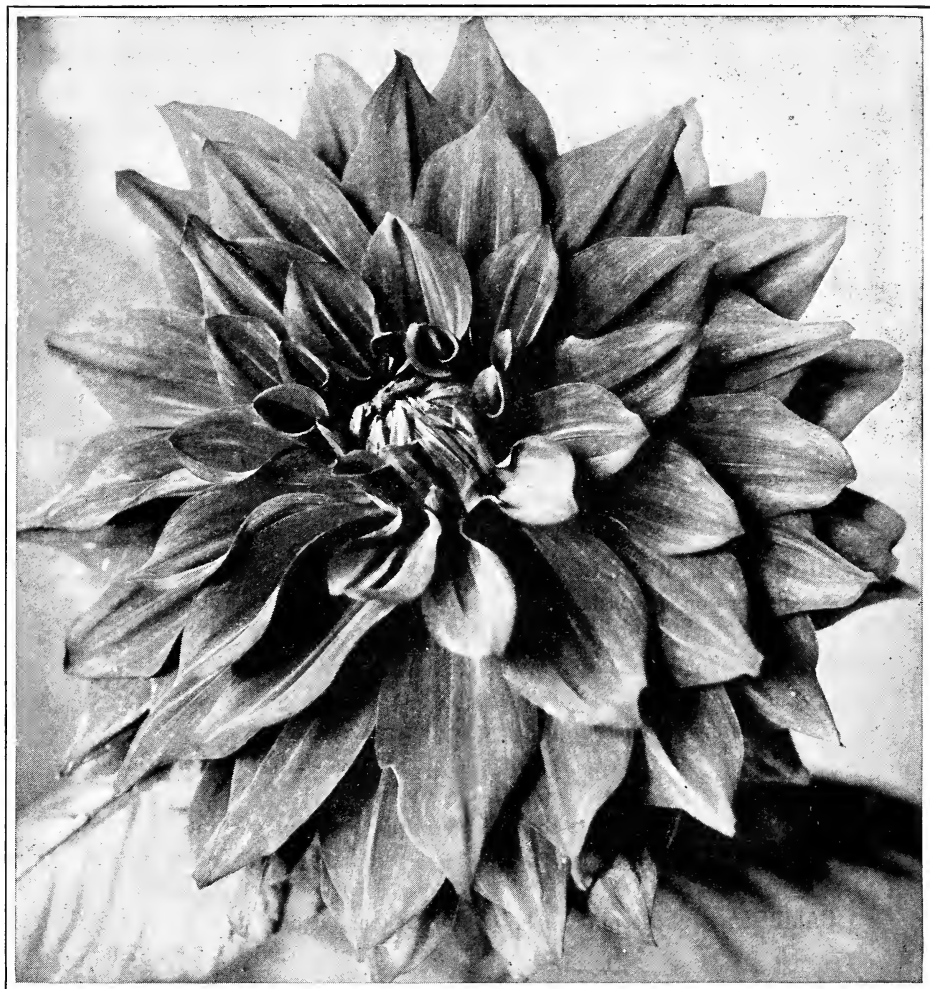

Yours very truly,

W. H. WAITE

Rumson, New Jersey, Sept. 25, 1925.

Having had the opportunity of watching the development of W. W. Kennedy & Sons' Elite Glory Seedling Dahlia, and would class this wonderful creation as a distinct break, to all lovers of the Dahlia family. In going over the field some few weeks ago I failed to find a plant but what was healthy and vigorous. Yes and flowers fully 11 inches across with depth to correspond. Also aside from its enormous size it flowers in abundance; one may see six and seven massive flowers on a plant. It is truly a wonder with excellent qualities.

WM. TURNER.
